Steve Slifka

Nurture by Steelcase

Steve is a Regional Manager for the Nurture by Steelcase division of Steelcase, Inc. He is responsible for the North East Sales Region. Steelcase, Inc. is an international work effectiveness company whose knowledge, products and services enhance the quality of people's lives in work environments. Its product portfolio includes furniture systems, seating, lighting, storage, architectural and technology products, and related products.

Steve has been with Steelcase for seven years. Prior to joining Steelcase, he worked for eleven years in sales with Andersen Windows, and three years in sales with Nabisco Brands, Inc. He is currently a member of both IIDA (International Interior Design Association) and ASID (American Society of Interior Designers).

Southern CT BOMA invites you to.....

Generations at Work

Here They Come...Are You Ready?

For the first time in U.S. history, there are four generations of employees making up today's workforce, and each generation requires different environments to work effectively.

By the year 2010, Generation Y will comprise 30% of the workforce. Are you prepared to handle their needs?

It has been estimated that the members of Generation Y will have between 21-35 jobs during their life-time. How are you going to attract and retain these individuals? 79% of teenagers surveyed responded that they do NOT want to follow their parent's footsteps. Where is your next labor force coming from? Will the cubicle of today efficiently house the work force of tomorrow?

Join us at lunchtime on April 19th to hear from Steve Slifka, Regional Manager/NE for the Nurture by Steelcase. Steve will discuss the changes that will take place, both with the workforce and the work environment over the next five years.

Bring your Human Resource Managers, space planner, architects, etc. as this is information they should hear. Brokers are also welcome.
